

FEDERALS BURN MEXICAN TOWN

NAVY PRISONERS TO COME HERE

Prison at Charlestown Yard to Be Closed and 139 Court Martial Men Sent to Seavey's Island Prison

Owing to the pressing need of all available marines for service in Mexico, the Charlestown naval prison will be temporarily closed and the 139 prisoners sent to the naval prison at Seavey's island.

Capt. H. D. South, U. S. M. C., who has been in command of the prison at the Charlestown yard, was called from his home in Malden at 10 last night and was given orders to transfer the prisoners at once. At midnight he was trying to arrange with the Boston and Maine officials for a special train and had decided if it was not possible to secure a train at once to transfer the navy yard tugs.

The prison guard directed the work. After the transfer is completed Capt. South is under orders to report, no matter what the hour, to the navy department, and to await orders to command a company in the new regiment of marines being formed to leave New York Sunday.

Many of the prisoners, it was announced, had volunteered for service, but as each is a general court martial prisoner only President Wilson could change their status.

At the navy yard this morning it was stated that the prisoners would probably come by water and would arrive here some time today.

"ON TO PORTSMOUTH"

This Will Be the Battle Cry When the War is Over.

It is none too early to pass the word along that among the summer guests at Portsmouth will be one "General Huerta and the bandit Villa of Mexico." Portsmouth is preparing to receive a large number of Mexicans. The men at the head of the tremendous undertakings in Mexico are all loyal friends of old Portsmouth. Admiral Fletcher has been in Portsmouth many times. He commanded the survey boat Eagle and also brought the Spanish prisoners here on the Starward.

Rear Admiral Bough was captain of the yard only a short time ago.

Rear Admiral Winslow is a descendant of this state and is a loyal friend of this state and is a loyal friend. These men are the ones that are making history and they will all give a good account of themselves.

MARINES OFF FOR MEXICO

Fifty-Four Men Leave this Noon in Charge of First Sergeant McEvoy to Join Special Service Squadron

In response to the orders received Friday evening from the navy department fifty-four marines who will comprise the nucleus of the 45th Company left here at 1:43 this afternoon for New York where they will join the special service squadron which will sail for Mexican waters on Sunday under the command of Rear Admiral McCameron Winslow. The detail was made up of 23 men from the naval prison, 16 from the prison ship Southery, and 15 from the barracks. The men were in charge of First Sergeant McEvoy, a veteran of several campaigns.

In Boston they will be joined by the detachment from the Charlestown yard and Captain William H. Parker, U. S. M. C., formerly attached to this yard, will take command of the company.

The detachment reached this side of the river shortly after 1 o'clock and headed by the naval band marched through Daniel, Congress, Vaughan and Deer streets to the depot. Over the entire route the men were given a hearty ovation and at the depot fully 1500 people were present to bid them farewell.

Here the men in blue took farewell of those near and dear to them. One of the boys after entering the car assigned to them reached out of the window and drew his sweetheart up and kissed her. The act was loudly applauded.

Sergeant Patrick McEvoy, the veteran in charge was also the recipient of many sincere farewells. He is an old campaigner, having seen service in the Boer war, the Boxer uprising, and the Spanish-American war, and will no doubt give a good account of himself in the present crisis.

As the train bearing the boys to the front pulled out of the depot, long and hearty cheers were given by those present to witness their departure.

REFUSE TO TAKE UP ARMS

Rebels Will Not Join Huerta Against the United States.

Nogales, Arizona, April 24.—Formal overtures from the Huerta forces to the Constitutionalists to make common cause against the United States have been rejected by the Constitutionalists. The communications were exchanged today between Gen. Joaquin Melles, one of Huerta's intimate friends and prominent generals, and General Obregon, Constitutional commander in the state of Sonora.

GRAVE FEARS FOR AMERICANS

Secretary Bryan Fears Huerta Has Executed Nineteen Americans

Chicago, April 25.—Twenty refugees, 19 Americans and one British subject, have been taken prisoners by Huerta's forces and are believed to have been executed by a firing squad, according to a telegram received from Secretary Bryan tonight by Dr. Herbert A. Parkyn, president of a Mexican plantation company.

UNDER THE WHEELS

Part of Load of Express Goods Go Under Wheels of Locomotive in Depot

Part of a truck load of express goods, being pushed along the depot platform were damaged by the wheels of a locomotive on Friday afternoon. The Concord train was backing into the yard at the time and the packages fell against the driving wheels of the engine. One package, containing women's dress goods was crushed and part of the jacket cut off. The engineer was quick to notice the trouble and stopped the train before any further damage occurred.

Nuevo Laredo Destroyed by Dynamite and Fire

Mexicans Fire on American Soldiers Guarding Bridge and Fire is Returned.--Not Expected that Outbreak Will Start Invasion of Northern Mexico

Laredo, Texas, April 25.—Nuevo Laredo, the thriving Mexican border town established in the danger zone. At the two bridges the guards were reinforced and it was here that the only known loss of life occurred. The machine gun platoon from Fort McIntosh took position near the center of the city, where the Federals who now were crowding into their trains, poured a fusillade of shots across the border.

Two Mexicans are known to have been killed by the United States and several were seen to fall when a machine gun platoon from Fort McIntosh got into action. Several brass skirmishes between Americans and Mexicans were fought in quick succession as the Mexicans, their troop trains ready to pull out of the burning city began an indiscriminate fire across the international border and tonight there was no evidence that their shooting had been effective.

Property damaged in Nuevo Laredo will reach $500,000. Among the buildings destroyed were the United States consulate, municipal building, post office, theatre, the flour mill, one of the largest in this section of the southwest; the railroad shops of the Mexican National railway and other smaller structures.

Last night the town was still burning with no chances that it would be controlled until everything inflammable had been wiped out. Kerosene and other combustibles, liberally used fed the flames which otherwise would not have been extensive, owing to the hasty construction largely used.

There was no property loss in Laredo. Both international bridges are safe, though efforts to dynamite them resulted in the death of two men engaged in the undertaking. One Mexican was shot by a sharpshooter from the top of the water tower.

The Mexican was trying to reach the end of the foot and wagon bridge. Another was killed when he tried to blow up the American railroad bridge. Americans were constantly at the American side to prevent such an attempt.

When the Mexican soldiers finally departed order was quickly restored in Laredo, but strong guards remain throughout the city. A serious problem was furnished immigration and city authorities by the presence here of hundreds of refugees from the burning city who had to be furnished with food and shelter.

The Federal garrison evacuated Nuevo Laredo yesterday, supposedly going to Saltillo or Monterrey. With their departure the busy little city of about 7000 population, was deserted, all who did not follow the soldiers rushing panic stricken to the American side in fear of bandit attacks. Early today the Federals returned and it was announced that they came back for addition engines to pull their troop trains. The Mexican railroad shops are here.

Little excitement was occasioned by the presence of the Federals until this afternoon. Smoke was seen issuing from some of the buildings around the plaza, the center of the town. The municipal building and the American consulate on opposite sides of the square broke into flames simultaneously. Next door to the consulate the postoffice temporarily closed, also was seen to be burning, and around the plaza smoke rose from the windows and roofs of other buildings.

A few minutes a loud explosion wrecked the house and the fire spread rapidly in all directions. Americans began to gather on the river bank but hastily retreated when warned that other explosions nearer at hand might occur.

Troops at Fort McIntosh were ordered out on the double quick and in a few minutes a rigid guard was established in the danger zone.

At the two bridges the guards were reinforced and it was here that the only known loss of life occurred. The machine gun platoon from Fort McIntosh took position near the center of the city, where the Federals who now were crowding into their trains, poured a fusillade of shots across the border.

Battery A of the Third Artillery was sent to the power house of the Laredo Electric Company, fearing an attack there, but it was soon seen that there was nothing for them to do.

Several Mexicans were seen to fall before the fire from the machine guns, but they were carried away by their comrades. The trains were started and the Federals withdrew, driving as they left. For some distance the railroad follows the international line.

After attending the Mexicans, part of the ninth infantry was withdrawn from the river front, the others remaining on guard.

Rumors that some American soldiers were wounded proved to be without foundation, as no shots struck in the central part of Laredo. Colonel Crane of the ninth infantry announced that a rigid patrol of the city, particularly of the business and American residential sections would be maintained.

Laredo, Tex., April 24.—Mexican Federals are firing on this town from Nuevo Laredo, Mex., across the Rio Grande.

The city of Laredo, Tex., is the capital of Webb County, Texas. It is situated on the Rio Grande, opposite Nuevo Laredo, Mex., The city is 100 miles southwest of San Antonio. The population in 1900 was 13,423. Mexico City, April 23. By Refugee what you consider proper wear from your Corset? Do all parts wear evenly, or does it wear in spots?

Do You Obtain

Wear a WARNER'S Rust-Proof Corset and be satisfied. It wears out all over at once, but then only after long, hard wear.

The Cloth is soft but very strong, admirably adapted to corsets; the Stitching is accurately done on modern machines; the Seams are strong and straight; all Boning is double—two thin strips give twice the flexibility and greater strength than possible with any single steel.

But above all the styles are accurate, comfortable and fashionable. The Warner designers are constantly in touch with the best and most advanced modes—European and Domestic.

VERDICT OF $119 AWARDED

Prof. Leacock of Exeter Found Guilty of Cruelty to a Dog.

The first jury case to be tried in the superior court at Exeter was that of Katherine and Guy Merrill of Biddeford, Me., formerly of Exeter, against Arthur G. Leacock of Exeter, for alleged cruelty to a dog. The verdict was brought by the jury at 8.30 after they being out a trial over three hours, which was $119 for the plaintiff.

The allegations were that the animal was kicked in the stomach, which caused its death. The defense was that it was committing a nuisance in the defendant's yard. The foreman of the jury was Will B. Gile of Raymond and the counsel for the plaintiffs were Colonel John H. Bartlett and John L. Mitchell, both of Portsmouth. Arthur G. Leacock of Exeter was for the defendant.

By the disposing of the criminal cases in this city, the term will probably be shorter than usual. All of the criminal cases except two where the prisoners pleaded not guilty have been disposed of.

TRIBUTE OF A FRIEND.

Editor of the Somersworth Free Press Feelingly Refers to Late Conductor J. J. Goodwin.

The tattle in the Somersworth Free Press pays the following tribute to the late Conductor J. J. Goodwin in this week's issue:

"Often there is much said about the dead that is merely formal and not wholly sincere. The various kindly expressions concerning the late Jeremiah Jordan Goodwin the well known Boston and Maine conductor, come from appreciative and sincere hearts. His long residence in Somersworth during his earlier years gave the people of this community a feeling of especial interest in him. Yet he was a citizen of all the communities along the line between Portsmouth and Intervale, as he rode as conductor during the greater portion of his service, for everybody that traveled on the train knew him and liked him. A more popular conductor had not been on the road. He was always good natured and cheerful and always had a pleasant word for people. They enjoyed riding on his train all the more for their feeling of friendly intimacy with the conductor. He was careful in the performance of his duties and his record was singularly free from accidents. Faithful to the road he served so efficiently for over two score of years, generous and kindly to his make up, honest toward all men and clean in his daily living, he was a man among a thousand, a man justly held in the highest esteem. The Tattle has known Mr. Goodwin, 'Jerry' as he was familiarly called, for many years and he feels a sense of deep personal loss in his death."

GUELPH PRISON FARM

Successful Experiment in Canada Deserves Attention

Renson Given for the Success of the Scheme

(W. N. Shushan in London Daily Chronicle)

By the courtesy of Colonel Macdonald, chairman of the commissioners, I had an opportunity one day last month of visiting the Guelph prison farm in Ontario. The scheme differs from our own penal system in scope and method. It has merits which Mr. McKenna's proposal for fines on the installment plan, instead of committals to prison, does not possess. It offers open-air health treatment, it stimulates self-discipline and in a number of instances provides help for wives and children.

Twelve hundred men withdrawn from the stone walls and iron bars of a central prison and placed in open country upon a farm. Appreciate that the buildings are of the slenderest character—that only half an inch of plank, so to speak, separates the men from liberty. Let it be understood that the few warden scattered about are as unobtrusive as possible—that even the term "warden" is dropped. Bear in mind also that these guests of the Ontario government include nearly every sort of offender and you get some idea of the almost Utopian conditions under which a daring experiment is being made in prison reform.

The farm consists of 800 acres two miles from the small town of Guelph, and fifty miles from Toronto. The men arrive by rail in their ordinary clothes, the train staying to set down or take up passengers only when required to do so—"desired" would hardly be the right word in this connection. I watched a party alighting at a point on the Canadian Pacific line where a few boards marked the stopping place. These had been stamped into the earth by the side of an open road, and the men had to take a considerable jump to reach the ground. I then went to Guelph to arrange for my permit and bought a ticket for the farm. "Return" queried the booking clerk automatically. I replied in the affirmative with a smile—I was not going to remain.

After going over a bridge of heavy masonry, which being home-made is one of the triumphs of the prison, I came to the settlement. The first suggestion to the mind of the unformed observer is that he is looking at the beginning of a garden city, large dormitories, manufacturing, dining halls and so forth, are built, erected to meet the needs of this ever-changing colony.

All the men under detention are from Kingston prison. To be passed to the farm their sentences must have been for not less than three months and under two years of hard labor. About 5 per cent of the committals to Kingston cannot, owing to their ugly record, be transferred otherwise it is only a question of finding room for them.

The place will never be more fascinating than it is today. Half a score of industries are going on with a small permanent staff to fit in with the necessarily uncertain skilled labor that come affords. The farming community is the largest the prisoners wear blue smocks and the guard gray suits, but clothing seems to depend mainly on the character of the work. The cooks are dressed in white.

One of the cheeriest, happiest crowds is in the quarry. The men of 25 stones light-heartedly and the guard appear to have no misgivings. So with the sons of Vulcan in the smithies, the carpenters with sharp-edged tools, the bricklayers carrying hods—there appears to be mutual confidence, and all goes well.

Everyone is proud of the farm, the daily turn is reckoned the finest on

HOW TO DANCE THE TANGO, No. 2

By ODGERS T. GURNEE

Illustrated With Specially Posed Photographs

WITH millions of devotees and thousands of denouncers, the modern dance craze has been a bone of contention in almost every corner of the civilized world.

There is little doubt that in their original form the dances of today were improper, but after passing through the mill of public usage they have been so renovated as to be absolutely unobjectionable at the present time.

The present mode of the tango calls for the Parisian steps in place of the South American style, which was the rage last year. However, some of the Argentine steps are very attractive, and a description of them will not be amiss.

The deep dip, forward and backward, is one of the essential figures from this dance and should be done as follows:

Start from the open tango position, as shown in the accompanying illustration, take three steps forward, and on the fourth step bend forward (B) the knee almost touches the floor. In all open steps start with the outside foot, so that in the forward dip the outside feet are advanced. Rising from this position, take three more steps, swing the inside foot forward, then back, turn on the outside foot and dip back with the inside foot. In this manner you have turned halfway around and are facing in the opposite direction. The foot which was formerly on the outside is now inside and vice versa. Take three steps forward, repeat step and you are straightened out again.

Another pretty step is as follows: Take three walking steps, swing outside foot in front of inside foot and drag back three times. This sounds very simple, but is really quite difficult, as the drags must not be jerky. These are the three principal steps of the Argentine as introduced in this country, and countless other steps can be devised to accompany them.

A hint for a few semi-original steps may be gleaned from the following:

A flirtation step, such as is danced in the maxixe, standing behind the girl and going from one side to another.

A step similar to the hesitation, man going forward and girl going backward. The man stands still crossing one foot in front of the other, while the girl does a series of steps halfway around him and then back again to original position.

These steps of the girl's can be changed at will and offer many opportunities for original thought.

Rowley Evans, Jr., who has been in the foremost ranks of dancers since the craze started, explains the dance craze as follows:

"Many persons are anxious to know why the dances have become so popular. Like all other amusements that are taken up by the majority, there is bound to be constant improvement. In the dances of the present this improvement has been along the lines of less effort and greater simplicity. For instance, the hesitation is only one-half the step of the original waltz, and the one step cuts down the effort of two stepping by half."

"This explains why so many older men and women have taken up the craze and find it so attractive. A moderate amount of dancing is excellent exercise and helps to keep the body fit where many medicines might fail."

"By the introduction of a new tempo occasionally the public interest is kept at a high pitch, and some one is always learning a new step. For instance, the tango arrived just in time to save the faded turkey trot, the Maxixe did the same for the tango, and now an attractive new rhythm in waltz motif is the seven-quarter time of our new dance—the moderation."

"This is a perfect combination of tango and Viennese waltz and lends itself splendidly to ballroom usage."

"So long as a new tempo or a new step can be devised the interest in dancing will continue."

Astronomers say that the tango will last till 1924. Which does not mean that the archbishop of New York, the Kaiser of Berlin or the Duchess of Norfolk in London will not triumph in their views upon the subject.

The tango of the astronomers is the tango type, the poetry of motion; the Maxixe also and all those dances of graceful attitudes and symmetrical measure, chiefs d'oeuvre of rhythm and gesture, the negation of pomp and the wildest derelict movement.

But we may even see folks waltz, for we are in a dancing period. It is the sun's fault.

Everybody knows that sun spots regulate dancing, and as it is a critical period of solar activity none may hope—and few would desire—to keep folk from being charmed by rhythmic movement.

Which leads to the fact that there is a time to dance and a time to fire of dancing. The sun's periods of eleven years, its maximums of thirty-three years and grand maximum of once a century correspond perfectly to the waltz of 1812, the gallion of 1824 (which also ushered in the schottische), the mazurka of 1836, the polka of 1845, the quadrille of 1852, the lancers of 1861, the cancan of 1868, the pas de quatre of 1882, the Boston of 1893, the cakewalk of 1892 and the tango of 1913.

was a fine type of man—handsome and alert, and he did not expect a life—a new experience for me in Canada.

Now for a few facts and figures. The number of escapes from the farm is less than one per cent of the men received. One old town bird, who feared that he would be sent back to the city, asked me to be sent back to the city, but that case is unique. The generally for detention, moreover, is better than might appear at first sight.

A large percentage of the men are awaiting the time when they will get their liberty by right. It is against their interest to take any risks. Secondly, among all criminals there is a considerable number who are of excellent character and thoroughly to be relied upon for order, except when they are under temptation that does not obtain in prison. Thirdly, it is a rule of a man by his wife, "He is a good husband when not in prison."

Thirdly, the fact that part of the earnings go to relieve women and children stimulates prisoners. The fourth reason for the success of the scheme is that good conduct often secures release on parole at the end of a limited time. The commissioners set monthly considerations in which it may appear there are good grounds for giving such a discount. During the course of 2 1/2 years, 5,556 men have been granted and the number of justice was asked to give admissions in 334 cases. In 272 he acted upon the recommendation and the prisoners were discharged upon parole. In only four cases have re-committals been made.

Very soon the settlement will have a more solid appearance—there is a set of administration buildings which will be linked together by underground tunnels. The intention still is that most of the inmates shall sleep in large dormitories, but separate cells for sleeping accommodations will be provided for a few of the old offenders. A mill for the manufacture of wood is being erected as is also a furniture factory, and there are several other schemes on foot.

My last impression of the place was unique. Most of the men had gone to play baseball—the evening recreation allowed them—but one followed my friend and myself in the gathering gloom down to the lonely railway siding, where the "C. P. R." train was to pick me up and take me to Toronto. I pointed him out, "That was the answer. A prisoner always acts as guard at the railway entrance after work-time and until sunset to stop strangers from trespassing." It was a case of poacher turned constable—and proof of the duty.

OBSEQUIES.

Moses Fry.

The funeral of Moses Fry was held at his home in Dover on Thursday and was largely attended. The body which lay in state Wednesday evening from 7 until 8 o'clock, was viewed by a large number of sorrowing friends. The service in the morning was performed by Rabbi Fleisher of Boston, in addition to the Masonic burial service, which was performed at the house by the officers of Stratford Lodge, A. P. and A. M. The buriers were Mayor Charles H. Fox and Frank M. Libby of Stratford Lodge and Charles M. Corson and Charles F. Hammond of Olive Branch Lodge, K. of P. Interment was in the family lot in Forest Glade cemetery.

County Commissioner George A. Carlisle of Exeter was here Friday to attend the meeting of the commissioners.

MECHANICAL REFRIGERATION.

Utilities and conveniences, public and private, have developed so rapidly in recent years that people are apt to overlook their importance and value and accept them as mere matters of course. It is not necessary to be old to remember when there were no trolley cars. One has not to be very old to recall the time when there were no telephones. All are aware that the automobile, one of the striking developments of the times, is of very recent origin. The mowing machine, the sewing machine, the threshing machine and many other labor-saving devices long since became an old story and attract no more attention than if they had always existed.

And but little is thought today about one of the most important of modern developments—mechanical refrigeration. It used to be thought quite a scheme to pack ice in sawdust so it would keep through the summer and provide means for cooling drinking water and preserving articles of food; but when mechanical refrigeration came there came with it a revolution in some phases of the life and industry of the times. No longer are we dependent upon natural ice for refrigeration, good as it is and largely as it is still used. By the starting of the proper machinery ice can be produced at any time in any climate, and the world is no longer dependent upon cold latitudes for the means of refrigeration.

With the development of artificial refrigeration has come an immense growth in the cold storage business, which, in spite of all the criticism that has been directed against it, is one of the greatest material blessings of the age. It permits the preservation of perishable food stuffs from the time when they are a drug on the market to the time when there is a real demand for them, and the business of handling food stuffs in this way is as legitimate as any in the world, when legitimately conducted.

In the hurly-burly of the age few householders realize the extent to which they are indebted to cold storage for many of the comforts they and their families enjoy. If this business were to suddenly cease there would go up a cry of protest by the side of which all the criticism ever hurled against it would be as naught.

Attention was recently called in this column to the worthiness of the movement to aid the families of the brave sailors and seafarers who lost their lives in a bitter spring blizzard off the north Atlantic coast, and it is a pleasure to learn that the Red Cross contributes $5,000 to the fund. In this time of threatened war it is comforting to know that good men and women are not forgetting the duties of peace.

An international congress on child welfare has been in session at Washington for a few days. It is proper that everything possible should be done for the welfare of the child, and it is also well to be careful that the good work is not overdone. Enthusiasm in a good cause should never be allowed to get the upper hand of common sense.

There are some things that are a greater menace to our people than the Mexicans, and they are certain kind of newspapers. The cruel stories published about the Mexican situation which are pure fakes—that about our American representative O'Shaughnessy being killed, etc. How can any good citizen support such publications?

It is only alarmists who suggest that Japan may go to the aid of Mexico. Japan is very friendly to the United States despite the Pacific coast irritation and agitation, and is not half so anxious for war with this or any other nation as fire-eaters of the Hobson stripe would have us believe.

A man has just died in Massachusetts who had been employed in one manufacturing plant for 59 years. That is a record that is rarely equalled, and it is probable that it would not have been made if the I. W. W. had come upon the scene a little earlier.

It is officially announced at Washington that Bryan is not to leave the cabinet. The conservation movement should take account of the valuable time consumed in demolishing baseless rumors.

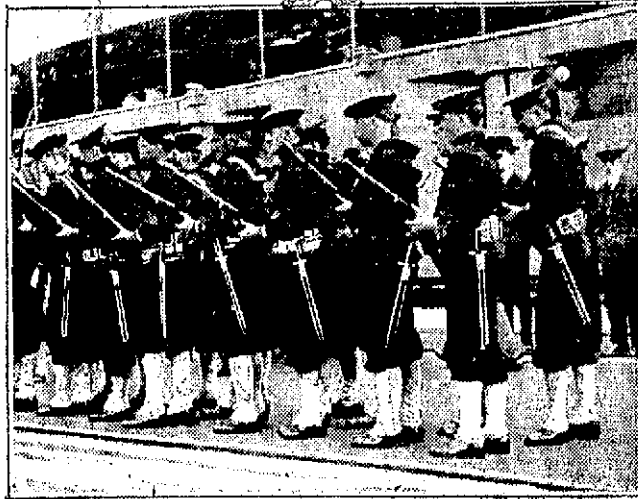

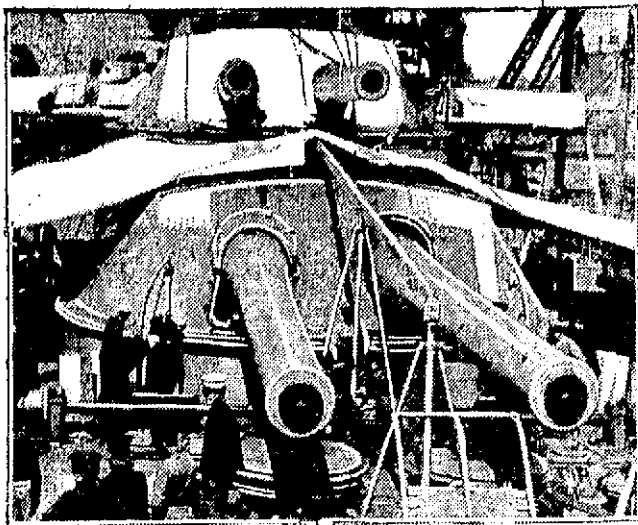

If the Mexican war succeeds in arousing the patriotism of our people to drive Eltor, Haywood and their kind out of this country it will have atoned for all the suffering and killing of Americans.

Rear Admiral Cameron McRae Winslow, a son of a New Hampshire man, will give a good account of himself in Mexico. He will carry confidence to all his men.

"Be careful and don't get hurt," is good advice, but it isn't always practicable for soldiers to follow it. And there are too many automobilists who fail to follow it.

Wilson hopes the fighting is over, but is it?

Doughty Fighting Marines and Deck View of the U. S. S. Texas.

Photos copyright, 1914, by American Press Association.

Here is a group of Uncle Sam's fighting marines of the kind that seized the federal buildings in Vera Cruz. They are all erect marksmen. The illustration also shows a deck view of the super-Dreadnought Texas, now being rushed into fighting trim at the Brooklyn navy yard.

Train to Vera Cruz, April 24.—Mobs in the streets of Mexico City were trampling under foot the Stars and Stripes, and were threatening American pedestrians when the refugee train, engaged under the auspices of the British and German legations, left for Vera Cruz, carrying some 500 fugitives of various nationalities.

The position of these American citizens left in the Federal capital was regarded as critical, since Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American Charge d'Affaires, Lieut. Stephen C. Rowan of the Navy and Capt. William A. Burdette of the Army were to leave on Thursday night for Manzanillo, on the Pacific Coast, under special arrangement with Provisional President Huerta.

Mob Smashed American Club Window.—Immediately after the news of the landing of American bluejackets and marines at Vera Cruz was made known in the Federal capital by extra editions of the local newspapers, crowds of students and Government office employees began to gather.

A mob of about 500 gathered in front of the American Club, where they smashed windows and howled insults and threats at the American citizens inside, all of whom they threatened to assassinate.

An appeal to the Governor of the Federal district brought police protection, but not before many of the windows had been shattered, not only in the club but in several of the adjoining properties which belonged to Americans.

Until 2 in the morning bands of excited Mexicans marched through the streets, singing the Mexican National anthem, and shouting "Death to the Americans!"

American Jewelry Store Looted.—An American jewelry store was looted by the mob at midnight, the police looking on, but taking no action.

The American Club, the leading American hotel, and the Mexican Herald were soon all closed, owing to the threats of the mobs to burn them and to murder their occupants.

The British, Germans and French in the Federal capital were prepared at a moment's notice to gather in the previously arranged concentration districts, which had been provisioned to stand a siege.

"Great Victories" Claimed.—The newspapers, probably acting under the directions of Huerta, issued many extra editions, in which they printed dispatches stating that El Paso, Laredo, Nogales and other places had been taken by the Mexicans, who had gained a great victory also at Vera Cruz where they expected to surround and drive the American invaders into the sea.

The papers also declared that the battleship Louisiana had been sunk by a Mexican torpedo and that Emiliano Zapata, the Southern rebel, was coming to join forces with Huerta.

All the American officials employed by the National Railroads and the Mexican Railway Company were immediately discharged by the Government, in order that no trains could be operated except under the supervision of the Government.

Arms Likely to Be Demanded

All the American Embassy orders were expected from the Mexican Government that the arms and ammunition recently permitted to enter should be given up, in retaliation for the seizure of Vera Cruz by the American fleet.

Nelson O'Shaughnessy appeared to be ignorant of his status, as he had received instructions to see Huerta after the occupation of Vera Cruz had occurred, and thus would be continuing relations. Up to 5 on Wednesday the charge d'affaires had not received his passports, but he was then preparing to leave.

The refugee train took 20 hours to make the journey from Mexico City to Vera Cruz. There were many delays, but no mishaps.

FOR INSHORE SERVICE

Admiral Winslow to Command Light Draft Vessels for Use on the East Coast of Mexico

Washington, April 24.—A special service squadron has been organized by the Navy Department for service in Mexican waters. The orders were issued today. This announcement was made by the Navy Department.

The Secretary of the navy today issued orders forming a special service squadron for service on the east coast of Mexico. Rear Admiral Cameron McRae Winslow has been selected to command and will hoist his flag on the New York, which will leave Sunday or Monday to join the fleet now in Mexican waters. The special service squadron will consist of the battleships New York and Texas, the armored cruisers Washington and Montana, the Tacoma, Des Moines, Chester, Salem, Nashville, Dolphin, Castine, Machias, Paducah, Wheeling, Petrel, Eagle, and other vessels as they become available from time to time.

The most of these vessels are well adapted for inshore work on the Mexican coast and the experience and ability of Rear Admiral Winslow eminently fit him for command of this squadron.

Rear Admiral Winslow, a nephew of the Winslow who commanded the famous old Kearsarge in her battle with the Alabama, is an officer of known courage, ability, and resourcefulness. In the Spanish War Rear Admiral Winslow then a Lieutenant, cut the telegraph cable near Santiago, Cuba, and was wounded in the hand. The cable cutting work was done from a small boat commanded by Lieutenant Winslow. Although himself wounded and the boat was subjected to a hot fire from the Spanish defenses ashore, Winslow kept at the work until the cable had been grappled, hauled across the bow of the boat and a piece cut out of it. Rear Admiral Winslow was in command of a division of the Atlantic fleet on its visit to the Mediterranean last winter.

DESERTERS NOW SORRY

Ask Mayor of Boston to Help Them Back to Service Again.

Several young men who deserted from the army and navy, because of what they declared to be the humdrum existence in the service during times of peace, but who are anxious to go to the front now, have appealed to Mayor Curley of Boston, to try and get them reinstated in their old places.

All of the young men who have asked the mayor to help them say that they are sorry they took French leave of the army or navy. They declare they are spoiling for a chance to give the Mexicans all the fight they want. One young man, 20 years old, with tears in his eyes, called upon the mayor recently. He stated that his desertion from the Portsmouth navy yard was the one regret of his life, and asked the mayor to appeal for clemency and an opportunity for re-enlistment.

In all cases Mayor Curley has referred the exact facts to the department. In those cases which seemed especially deserving the mayor has made appeals for both clemency and an opportunity for further service at the front in half of the petitions.

ANNUAL MEETING

Of Rockingham County Female Cent Institution and Home Missionary Union

The annual meeting of the Rockingham County Cent Union was held at Hampton on Thursday, April 23rd. Delegates were present from Portsmouth, Exeter, North Hampton, Greenland and Atkinson. Mrs. William J. Ross of Hampton, director of the county work had prepared a pleasing program, the different parts of which were all well taken and of much interest. The ladies of Hampton provided a delicious lunch for the officers and speakers.

The address of Mrs. Hankermeyer who has worked for some time in New Mexico was especially timely. "Conditions in New Mexico" she said "are exactly like conditions in Old Mexico." In a picturesque description of the country, she quoted a cowboy as saying, "In New Mexico there are more rivers and less water, a larger number of cows and a smaller quantity of milk, a longer distance to look and less to see than any place I was ever in."

After picture of the moral and social condition of the people was a dark one. Except where the railroad has gone, it is a land of mud houses, ignorance, superstition and disease.

The program was as follows:

- 10.30—Devotional Service
- Mrs. Otis H. Marston
- Welcome Mrs. J. S. Strunk
- Response Mrs. Lillian Odell
- Business—Report of Secretary
- Address—America's New Americans Mrs. O. J. Gentry
- Address—Immigration Mrs. C. S. Toppan
- Basket Lunch
- 11.45—Roll Call
- Duet Mrs. Coffin, Mrs. Lane
- Talk—Social Work in Portsmouth Mrs. Lucius Thayer
- Reading—The Miracle of the Lepers Mrs. A. K. Church
- Address—Spanish Americans in the Southwest Mrs. Frances N. Hankermeyer
- Offering
- Solo Mrs. Albert Coffin
- Closing Exercises.

CURRENT OPINION

Polling Places in Public Schools Will Help Straighten Political Arrangements.

The first physical step in straightening out our political arrangement is the use of each public schoolhouse as the polling place of its district.

That a good start has been made is evident in the fact that more than five hundred schoolhouses throughout the country have already been put to this appropriate use. Seventy school buildings are serving as polling places in Chicago this spring. New York, with six hundred and twenty public schools and five hundred and fifty-four public buildings, still votes in four hundred and thirteen barber shops as well as many pool rooms, bakeries, undertaking establishments and small stores. Although a bill failed at the recent session of the legislature, the people of New York are still struggling for a law which will permit the use of schools as voting centers.

This movement must succeed. Experience and reason make it clear that the public school is pre-eminently the place in which the people should voice their will in their own affairs.—Edward J. Ward, Adviser on Social Center Development, University of Wisconsin.

PORT OFFICERS ARE APPOINTED

Admiral Fletcher Selects Surgeon Spratling as Sanitary Officer at Vera Cruz

Vera Cruz, April 25.—Admiral Fletcher yesterday afternoon appointed Commander G. C. Suckney of the Prairie as collector of the port; Fleet Surgeon L. W. Spratling as sanitary officer, and Lieut. Guy W. S. Castle as provost marshal of the city.

There has been a noticeable improvement in the general conditions. Firing from the house-tops and windows is becoming infrequent. Many of the populace are returning to the houses from which they fled.

The report that the United States authorities had executed several Mexicans was denied by Captain Huse, Admiral Fletcher's chief of staff, who said:

"We have not executed any prisoners, but you may quote me as saying that we may have to come to that very soon unless these people stop murdering our men as they have been for the last few days."

CAPTURE OF THE DRAKE

Helen Seavey Quilting Party Observes 136th Anniversary of Event

The members of the Helen Seavey Quilting Party auxiliary to the Paul Jones club, Sons of the American Revolution, were the guests of Mrs. William O. Jenkins of State street on Friday afternoon, the occasion being the 136th anniversary of the capture of the British man-of-war Drake by Captain John Paul Jones. The president, Mrs. Charles E. Hodgdon, presided and spoke interestingly of this brilliant naval achievement of the intrepid Jones. Mrs. Henry I. Durgin read an interesting paper on "Flint, steel and tinder," tracing the same from the early Grecian times. In the course of her remarks she told of the destruction of Whitby by John Paul Jones.

Mrs. W. O. Jenkins was the next speaker and she entertained her hearers with a trip to Washington and Mt. Vernon.

The last speaker was Mrs. O. L. Frisbee who told of her recent visit to New York and the hotel men's conventions.

Light refreshments were served and the session was greatly enjoyed by those present.

An invitation was received from the G. A. R., to take part in their memorial observances to be held on Sunday, May 24th.

TO TEST THE MILITIA LAW

Washington, April 24.—Proceedings were begun in the Supreme Court today to determine whether the National Guard may be sent to Mexico or other territory outside the United States without first being mustered in as volunteers.

The proceedings are in the nature of an appeal from the action of Judge Day in the Federal Court in Northern Ohio in dissolving an action of Lieut. Col. Daniel T. Stearns against Adj. Gen. George H. Wood of the Ohio National Guard, growing out of preparations for militia movements outside the country.

The court action is designed to test the constitutionality of the recently enacted militia law, under which Sec. of War Garrison directed the various National Guard organizations to mobilize under orders from the President "upon the declaration of war or the imminence thereof." The suit was begun April 18, at Cleveland, and Judge Day dismissed the action.

The contention is made that under the Constitution all Federal power over the State Militia is confined to the organization, arming and disciplining of the organization, but that all other powers are reserved to the individual states.

An appeal from the decision of Judge Day was filed in the Supreme Court and a motion made to advance hearing on the cases. Attorneys for the Adjutant General of Ohio argued that the case should be advanced owing to the possible early need for the militia.

VOLUNTEER ARMY BILL PASSED

Washington, April 24.—The Senate today without debate passed the volunteer army bill as agreed to by the conferees of the House and Senate.

FOUNTAIN PENS IN OUR FOREIGN TRADE

Washington, D. C., April 24.—The United States exports over 30,000 fountain pens per annum, or approximately one fountain pen for each gross of ordinary pens exported. Last year we exported 300,200 fountain pens and 49,000 ordinary pens. In each case having been made in about fifty countries. In the past few months since the record of fountain pen exports began the sales abroad have amounted to a half million pens, with an average wholesale value of $1.05 each.

More than one-half of the fountain pens, according to the official statistics of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce, were sent to England. Out of 300,200 exported in the last fiscal year, 160,000 were consigned to England, 53,700 to Canada, and 30,000 to France. Next in importance as markets for this class of American manufactures were Germany, the Netherlands, and Austria-Hungary in Europe; Cuba, the British West Indies, and Panama in North America; Brazil, Argentina, and Chile in South America; India and Japan in Asia; and Australia and the Philippine Islands. Singularly, the name countries are, in most cases, the largest purchasers of our fountain pens.

The fountain pen industry, while relatively small, is rapidly increasing in importance and it may therefore be expected that the exports will greatly expand in the near future. In the ten years from 1899 to 1909, according to the official figures of the Census Bureau, the value of products turned out by the fountain, stylographic, and gold pen industry almost doubled, while the output of steel pens doubled. Nearly all the domestic product is consumed in the United States, the figures of production having been, in 1909, $5,300,000 and the recorded exports of that year, only $162,000. In comparison with $500,000 last year, English and Swedish steel pens are largely used by our manufacturers in the production of pens, by reason of the special adaptability of that steel to this peculiar use.

Imported fountain pens are making but little headway in our domestic markets, but other classes of pens, except those of gold, are bought in considerable quantities from foreign countries. Last year, for example, the value of fountain and stylographic pens entered for consumption at domestic ports was only $54,200 or about one-sixth the value of those which we sold abroad. In the same year, however, we bought over $25,000 gross of other available pens from foreign countries, with a total value of nearly $155,000.

The proportion of our steel pens supplied by foreign countries is much smaller than in earlier years. In 1890 nearly all of those consumed were made abroad, now three out of every four, it is stated, are of domestic production, and the facilities for manufacture have so improved that their cost has fallen from $2 each in 1893 when steel pens began to supplant quills, to less than 25 cents per gross in 1913. Practically all the imported steel pens are from Birmingham, England, where articles of this class were first made. That city sends to our ports a steadily increasing number of steel pens, despite the rapidly growing domestic product and the wider use of fountain pens. Of the $152,817 worth of fountain pens imported for consumption in the fiscal year 1913, $138,773 worth according to the annual report of Consul Albert Hake, were from Birmingham.

Gold pens are a negligible factor in our import trade. In 1909 the imports thereof entered for consumption were valued at $12,358; by 1913 they had decreased to $65, and in 1914 had practically ceased, that year showing a total of only $1. In fact, the gold pen is a distinctly American product, and a large proportion of the world's supply is made in New York.

MEN CANNOT AFFORD TO BE POORLY DRESSED

Good appearance is a strong feature in business success. Good clothes are essential to good appearance.

But good clothing need not mean extravagance. The making of attire for men is now standardized almost to an exact science.

Priests are often quite moderate and seldom unduly high.

Glance through the advertising in The Herald from day to day and notice the character of the clothing the stores are offering.

Not much trouble to dress well if men are alert to their opportunities.

PORTSMOUTH WOMAN ROBBED

Jewelry, Money and Valuable Papers in Handbag Stolen in Boston.-- She Offers $200 Reward

Money, jewelry and papers said to be worth $2,000 were stolen from a Portsmouth lady at Boston a few days ago, and the stolen police are busy attempting to locate the thief and missing property.

The story is that the theft took place in a leading Boston store where the lady was making a purchase of gloves. In trying on the gloves she removed two rings valued at $500 from her fingers and placed them in a leather bag which was on the counter. When she came to look for the bag it had disappeared. Besides the rings there was several hundred dollars in money and several valuable papers. The Boston police and the management of the store were notified immediately and a reward of $250 was offered through the Boston papers for the same with no questions asked.

CHEERED IN NEW YORK STREETS

Portsmouth Marines Get Great Ovation.--Their Fine Appearance Stirs Patriotism

The first martial display in connection with the hostilities in Mexico, seen on the streets of New York city, took place when a detachment of marines from the Portsmouth and Boston yards in command of Captain James T. Buttrick marched down Fifth avenue from Forty-third street to Thirty-second street, en route from the Grand Central to the Pennsylvania station.

In Jersey City they were joined by a detachment from the New York navy yard, proceeded to the League Island navy yard at Philadelphia, where they sailed on the steamship Morro Castle for Vera Cruz.

The clean-cut, business like appearance of the marching men stirred the patriotism of those who lined the sidewalks in Fifth avenue.

Instructions to Men

Constructor E. C. Hammer, Jr., has issued the following instructions to the workmen for the guidance of those whose work requires the handling of lead and its products.

Wash your face and hands thoroughly before eating; a bath should be taken once a day.

Chewing tobacco while working with lead is prohibited.

Wear a respirator when scaling or working with lead.

Take five grain tablets of Sodium hyposulphite daily while working with lead; they will not harm you and counteract any lead the system absorbs.

The adherence to the above instructions will no doubt lessen the number of cases of lead poisoning which have been prevalent at the yard of late.
